

ABILITY NATION: People with Disabilities Speak Out

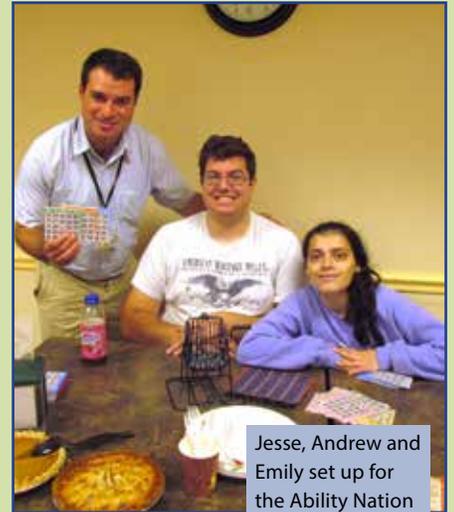

Just before 11 AM on a Friday in early October, a voice came over the PA system at Living Resources' Albany office: "The Bingo Fundraiser is about to begin in the cafeteria."

That voice belonged to Andrew, a member of Ability Nation, a self-advocacy group for people served by Living Resources.

Started in January 2016, Ability Nation began when Living Resources Residential Program employees Lauren Ford and Kelsea Adams organized a meeting to introduce the concept of self-advocacy to individuals we serve.

"Nothing About Us Without Us"

The guest speaker at that first meeting was Chester A. Finn, a well-known self-advocate who has never let his developmental disability and visual impairment hold him back. Individuals who attended the initial meeting were excited and energized by Finn's words, and were eager to have monthly meetings. "Mr. Finn really inspired us and showed us what we could do for ourselves," said Ability Nation President, Jesse Saperstein.

Jesse, Andrew and Emily set up for the Ability Nation Bingo Fundraiser in October

What is Self-Advocacy?

Self-Advocacy is defined as the ability to speak and act on behalf of one's self and is an important skill in school, medical, social and employment settings.

Saperstein, the author of two critically-acclaimed books about growing up on the autism spectrum, works at Living Resources, where he teaches creative writing to people with disabilities, helping them find their voices. "The motto used by people in the self-advocacy movement is 'nothing about us without us', meaning that people with disabilities must have a voice in matters that affect us."

Ability Nation's mission is to provide people with intellectual and developmental disabilities with the skills and confidence needed to speak for themselves

THE MOBILITY PROGRAM: Providing Access to Opportunities

Imagine that you're a participant in Living Resources Day Services Programs.

Each weekday, you wake up, get dressed and ready for the day, and head off to the "home base" of your program site. Imagine that on this particular day, the group is going to spend the morning at a local food bank, helping to put together groceries and other supplies for needy families. After eating lunch, the group will go to the Jonesville Church for a cooking class before heading back to their "home" site. It sounds like it will be a great day of helping others, making tasty treats, and being with friends.

Now imagine that you can't go with the group. As they head out for the day, you must stay behind and participate in activities that are neither fun nor challenging for you – just because you use a wheelchair, and the Day Services Programs doesn't have any accessible vehicles.

Until recently for some participants in our Day Program, there was no need to imagine this scenario, because it was their day-to-day reality.

It was just a year ago, in January of 2016, that the Mobility Program was launched, making Living Resources Day Services Programs the first in the Capital/Saratoga Region to offer day services to people with intellectual and developmental disabilities who also have a physical impairment – individuals who were previously unable to attend programs in their community because they use a wheelchair, walker or crutches.

A MESSAGE FROM THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

I was recently looking back over Living Resources newsletters, website and social media stories from the past few years, and I noticed that there was one word I kept seeing over and over again: independence.

Independence is again at the forefront in this issue of our newsletter. You'll read about our Mobility Program, which allows people who use wheelchairs or other mobility aids to participate in our Day Opportunities programs. You will also learn about Ability Nation, the self-advocacy group which is helping the people we serve find their voices, and hear about the success and growth of the Internship Program at The College Experience.

MOVING FORWARD

After 25 years, we have retired our long-running gala, the Culinary Cornucopia – but the party isn't over...

We are thrilled to announce the premiere of our new signature event, The Art of Independence, to be held on Thursday, May 11, 2017 at Integra Optics in Latham. This event will have all of the fun and festivity of the Cornucopia, combined with a focus on the role of the arts and creativity in Living Resources' programs.

WHY AN ARTS EVENT?

Because we have the expertise and experience!

2017 marks the 20th Anniversary of our Arts Program. Started entirely with private funding, with just one teacher and six students, it quickly grew to meet the demand for more sessions.

Today, classes are held seven days a week at three studio locations throughout the area, with 115 students taking lessons from 8 instructors in subjects including painting, printmaking, photography, filmmaking and textile arts; additionally, arts instruction is incorporated into many of our programs, including Day Services, Brain Injury Services, and the Veterans Services Project.

Guests at the Art of Independence can look forward to experiencing some of this wonderful art and creativity, while mixing and mingling with many remarkable artists and seeing firsthand the ways in which the arts enrich and empower them.

Fredrick W. Erlich
Chief Executive Officer

We're also excited about the location, Integra Optics' stylish and contemporary venue: a converted airplane hangar, overlooking the Albany International Airport. (No need to worry about parking. While the venue is located near the airport, it's a separate location with ample parking!)

A COMMITMENT TO EXCELLENCE

As with many other nonprofits, Living Resources faces challenges due to the shifting landscape of State and Federal regulations, funding cuts, and the push toward private-pay. The next few years are sure to hold more such challenges, but no matter what ups and downs the future brings, Living Resources is committed to excellence, now and always.

As an agency, we've always been ahead of the curve, starting innovative programs like our Day Services Program and The College Experience as we saw the needs arise. We will continue to do so in the future, addressing the needs of the people we serve and their families.

The creation of the Art of Independence event serves several purposes: directly raising funds for the agency, increasing our reputation for excellent programs and services which leads to more donations, and last but not least, to give back to the community by sharing the beauty of the work created by our artists who seek to share who they are with you.

We hope that 2017 brings you and your family happiness, health...and a bit of creativity!

on important issues, such as the need for expanded services and programs, more and better employment opportunities, and stopping discrimination against people with special needs.

While Living Resources staff members are on hand at the meetings to provide guidance, all issues and actions are undertaken by group members. Together, Ability Nation members have done everything from deciding on the name of the group, to electing their board members, to choosing the issues and goals they want to focus on.

Currently, their main goal is to raise enough money to attend the Statewide Conference of the Self-Advocacy Association of New York State in September of 2017. "We wanted to go in 2016, but we couldn't afford it," explained Andrew.

Attending the conference will allow members to share ideas and strategies with other self-advocates from all over the state, to hear keynote speakers, and attend workshops and focus groups.

Making Plans: Members of the Ability Nation Self-Advocacy group at their September, 2016 meeting, where they planned the Bingo Fundraiser, held in October.

In order to make progress toward their goal, the group decided to hold a fundraiser, and settled on the idea of a Bingo event, then came together to make preparations, including drafting a letter to ask local businesses for donations to be used as prizes, and creating hand-lettered posters to advertise the event.

On the day of the fundraiser, three Ability Nation members, plus Ford and Adams, set up their "Bingo Parlor" in the Living Resources cafeteria. They sold Bingo cards to the guests - employees and people served by the agency - and displayed an array of prizes players could win. Many guests played several Bingo cards at once, and stayed for multiple rounds of fun.

When all was said and done, the event was definitely a success. Not only did it raise over $200 toward the conference fund, it also succeeded in raising awareness - and membership - of the group.

Among the Bingo players were participants in Living Resources' Acquired Brain Injury (ABI) Program. After hearing Ability Nation group members and staff talk about self-advocacy, many asked if they could join.

The answer, of course was yes - and suddenly, Ability Nation had a few new citizens.

Andrew and Emily have fun calling Bingo numbers as Kelsea and Lauren stand by at the Ability Nation Bingo Fundraiser, held in October 2016.

Want to join Ability Nation?

Individuals with intellectual/developmental disabilities and their support staff are welcome, including those who don't receive services from, or work for Living Resources!

Ability Nation meetings are held at 6:00 pm on the 2nd Wednesday of each month.

"It was frustrating to me," said Donald, a Mobility Program participant who previously spent his days at a Site-Based Day Program, which is designed for people with more severe intellectual challenges. "I was bored all the time and I never got to do fun things."

With the addition of two handicapped-accessible vans, Donald and three other individuals with physical disabilities are able to participate in the same activities as individuals without mobility challenges.

"It's great to see these individuals finally get a chance to

"It was frustrating to me...I was bored all the time, and I never got to do fun things."

participate in community activities," said Frank Prevratil, Director of the Day Community Opportunities Program (DCOP). "We hope to expand and improve the program over the next year."

While the Mobility Program is a great leap forward for the DCOP, challenges remain.

Currently, the program has two vans, affectionately called "North" and "South", after the large territories they cover each day. "North" transports participants throughout northern and southern Saratoga County, as well as Schenectady County. "South" covers northern and southern Albany County and also Rensselaer County. (Due to the number of participants in the DCOP, both Albany and Saratoga counties are divided in two so that group sizes can be kept small.)

"We put a lot of mileage on those vans," said Laurie Gendron, Albany South DCOP Manager. Gendron went on to add that neither of the vans is new. One van – a 2007 Ford Econoline – was previously used by a residence, and the second van, while only 3 years old, is not a fuel-efficient model. "The vans routinely travel 75 to 100 miles in a day."

The program hopes to obtain a grant to purchase new vans which are in better shape, are more fuel-efficient, and which have improved wheelchair "tie-downs". (Tie-downs keep wheelchairs safely and securely in place as the van travels – essentially a seat belt for wheelchairs.)

While the tie-downs in the current vans are safe, they are time-consuming to use, requiring staff to spend a long time to get wheelchairs secured for travel, then to unfasten them when they reach a program location. If a van stops so that participants can use the restroom, it typically takes 25 to 30 minutes to unfasten the wheelchairs, get people in and out of the bathrooms, and back into the van where the wheelchairs must be secured before they get on the road again.

"Newer vans are so much nicer...they have better fuel economy, ride more smoothly, and the new style tie-downs are so quick and easy," said Gendron, who tells of staff members who left the program due to their frustration with the tedious process of getting people in and out of the vans. "We're so grateful to have our current vans, but at some point soon, we will need to replace them."

For Donald and the other Mobility Program participants, the vans mean the chance to experience new things, make friends, and learn new skills.

"I really like going out with my group," said Donald. "I like going out every day and doing all kinds of things instead of sitting around like before."

Living Resources Clinical Internship Program: A Successful Partnership

by Jeffrey Hallenbeck, MS, LMHC

Living Resources has distinguished itself among local Intellectual and Developmental Disability (IDD) and mental health providers in committing to a comprehensive and structured internship program for graduate students in both mental health counseling and social work.

Our Internship Program has been in existence for six years, and has grown substantially over that time period. Under the clinical supervision of Jeff Hallenbeck, LMHC, Len Travaglione, PhD, and Jen Kirkpatrick, MA, interns provide both individual and group therapy to participants in our residential and day programs as well as to College Experience students.

This model has been highly successful, resulting in both UAlbany and The College of Saint Rose putting Living Resources at the top of their respective lists for internship placements.

In addition to their clinical work, interns also attend a mandatory class each Thursday which covers various aspects of their work, as well as providing them a forum for clinical presentations regarding people they are working with, and time to review current literature relevant to our field. In 2017, the interns will also be helping with several presentations which will be open to all staff.

At the beginning of December, we said goodbye and congratulations to interns Cary, Alison and Michael, who graduated, and we welcomed four new interns in January.

If you have questions, or work with individuals who you think would benefit from individual or group counseling, please contact Clinical Services for more information.

COLLEGE EXPERIENCE MEET AND GREET NETWORKING EVENT

On Thursday, October 18, The Melting Pot Restaurant at Crossgates Mall hosted a unique event which allowed representatives from local businesses to network with students from the College Experience who are looking for internship and job-shadow opportunities.

The internship program is always looking to partner with new businesses to expand students' career exploration and job skill choices, and to demonstrate to business owners that individuals with disabilities are excellent interns and employees - a number of the students have been hired by the businesses when their internships ended.

Amy speaks about her experiences as a College Experience intern as Living Resources CEO Fred Erlich looks on.

The College Experience, a collaborative effort of Living Resources and The College of Saint Rose, is a two-year certificate program for young adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities. As part of their curriculum, students explore their talents and interests, and second-year students obtain internships at local businesses.

Among the businesses where College Experience students hold internships are the Teresian House, The Albany Marriott, and Mazzone Prime Business Dining, to name just a few.

VETCON

Veterans in Economic Transition Conference

Living Resources was a proud sponsor and participant in the inaugural Veterans in Economic Transition Conference (VETCON), held at the Desmond Hotel and Conference Center in Albany on October 24th and 25th of 2016.

VETCON, created and put on by Tully Rinckey PLLC, Attorneys and Counselors at Law, was designed help veterans transition from serving their country to beginning or developing their professional careers.

The conference, which was the first of its kind in the Capital Region, offered a wide range of public and private businesses, non-profit and for-profit organizations, and government agencies which gathered to assist former service people via seminars, legal and professional advice, and opportunities to network with veteran-owned businesses.

FALL 2016 DAY PROGRAMS ACHIEVEMENT AWARDS

The Day Programs Achievement Awards are held twice annually at the Village of Colonie Recreation Center to honor the accomplishments of people in our Day Programs, Arts Program and Brain Injury Services in such categories as completion of cooking classes, improvement in foreign language skills and Best Peer Helper. Awards are also given to outstanding staff and to community partners. Here are some highlights from the October 2016 Awards!

Amanda Rivenburg of the Saratoga Day Community Opportunities Program (DCOP) presents Helen with an award at the Fall 2016 Day Programs Achievement Awards.

A check from the proceeds from the sales of S.E.A. Biscuits dog biscuits, baked, sold and marketed by individuals in our programs, was presented to the Damien Center's P.A.W.S. (Pets Are Wonderful Support) program which takes care of people's pets when they are undergoing treatment HIV and AIDS, and pays for their pets' care when they cannot afford it.

The Starlight Awards are presented to employees who go the extra mile for the people they serve.

Artists from Living Resources' Arts Program worked with people from other disability service agencies on the 2016 community art project for Capital Capabilities, an annual festival held at the Schenectady Jewish Community Center to celebrate the creative talents of people with disabilities. The project - a NY State map, made up of puzzle pieces, the symbol of autism spectrum awareness - now hangs at the JCC.

#bFair2DirectCare

In 2016, rallies were held throughout New York State to bring attention to the need for better wages for Direct Service Professionals (DSPs), the skilled and caring employees who work with individuals with disabilities every day.

DSPs, people served by disability-service agencies and their families came from many agencies, including Living Resources, to make their voices heard at rallies in Albany, Schenectady and Troy.

LION HEART RESIDENCES RIBBON CUTTING: OPENING DOORS OF OPPORTUNITY

On May 24, 2016 a ribbon-cutting ceremony was held to celebrate the opening of Lion Heart Residences in Cohoes, NY.

Developed and owned by Regan Development in coordination with Living Resources, the $16.4 million, 72-unit complex features affordable and energy-efficient one, two, and three-bedroom apartments for low-income households, and includes 15 fully-accessible units for 23 individuals served and supported by Living Resources.

Residents in the Living Resources units have varying needs, ranging from individuals requiring 24-hour-a-day staffing, while others live independently with support from Living Resources Community Habilitation services, which provides assistance with independent living skills and residents personal goals.

"I am excited to see this project come to fruition and would like to express our gratitude to all those involved who made the Lion Heart Residences possible," said Living Resources CEO Fred Erlich. Much of the event took place in the Lion Heart community room, which is in a central building that also features a laundry facility, mail room, a kitchen and apartment offices.

Attendees had the opportunity to see these amenities, and to view a resident's apartment before proceeding to

When Living Resources' CEO Fred Erlich took to the pitcher's mound to throw out the first pitch, he was dressed in a Superman suit, complete with "Man of Steel" muscles, much to the delight of the staff and program participants in attendance.

Members of the incoming class of College Experience students posed in front of a statue of educator Thelma P. Lally on the College of Saint Rose campus last August. The phrase on the statue's base is especially appropriate: "Oh, Yes You Can!"

Day Program participants proudly gathered at eba Dance Theatre in Albany for a recital in front of family, friends and staff after 6 weeks of dance and expressive movement lessons.

"WORLD"- CLASS ARTWORK

Artists from our Schenectady Day Community Opportunities Program (DCOP) created a large mural which now has a permanent home at Puzzles Bakery and Café in Schenectady. The wooden mural features a colorful map of the world, and includes the words, "Believe that there is good in the world".

Internationally-known author, businessman and motivational speaker Clifton Taulbert visited Living Resources on December 7th, where he spoke to staff and guests on the topic, "Success in Life and Work: Your Mindset Matters".

In Memoriam: Andrea Taichnar

Andrea Taichnar, former Associate Executive Director of Living Resources, passed away in July of 2016 - but she is still very much present in our hearts and minds.

Through her words and actions, Andrea continually demonstrated her commitment to the very best care for the people we serve, and instilled in others her ideals of dedicated, person-centered service.

I often hear from people who knew her - employees, people in our programs and family members - how much Andrea did for them, as they share their personal stories of her warmth, joy and of course, her wonderful sense of humor.

I miss her, and on behalf of the Living Resources family, we share in the loss of our dear friend, Andrea.
